

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS OF QUEBEC CONNECTOR

Number 09

Fall 2012

Our Goal:

Is to serve as a communicator for researching and tracing the families of the Eastern Townships of Quebec. Thank you for your interest in our newsletter.

The ETQC e-letter is published twice a year to inform our readers of sources that are available for research in the Eastern Townships.

It is hoped to help our readers to be more aware of the collections that are already published or will be published in the near future.

Your feedback is appreciated so we know if we can make a difference in the search for your Eastern Township Ancestors.

Different families will be featured from different counties and when possible a picture will be included in the ETQC e-letter.

THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS COPPER INDUSTRY

Source: <http://www.etr.ca/archives-department/historical-articles-from-the-etr.html#c8253>

With the penny soon to be a thing of the past it seems like an appropriate time to highlight the copper mining industry that was at one time a major industrial boom for the Eastern Townships. A certain amount of exploration and mining had begun in the Townships prior to 1860, but it was the American Civil War that introduced a huge demand for copper. With advancing metallic weaponry, copper was a necessity and the United States did not have the resources to sustain these requirements. This need for copper led the Americans up north and upon further exploration the mass amounts of copper resources soon became apparent. Miners began to be in such high demand that many farmers worried that their labourers would soon abandon them. The Harvey Hill Mine in Leeds Township and the Acton Mine were two mines with particularly astounding amounts of copper.

Following the war, demand slowly declined and several mines in the area began to mine minerals such as asbestos in addition to copper while others eventually closed. Some of the better known mines in the area today are Capelton and Eustis mines. Capelton closed in 1924 but remains open to tourists and Eustis mines managed to remain open until 1939.

The photograph is from the Huntingdon Mining Company in Bolton in 1868 which was forced to close shortly after the Civil War.

Mission

The mission of this project is to capture digital images and the complete transcription of headstones of our ancestors. As decades pass, it is becoming harder - if not impossible - to read the inscriptions these stones originally contained. By archiving the images and transcriptions, these important records are saved.

This Headstone Photo Project is a non-profit organization. Success of the Project depends completely upon the activities of many volunteers and other individuals who contribute photographs to the archive.
Help save history for future generations!

This is most likely Richard Henry Bell b. Sept 1851 d. Aug 1904 son of Horatio Bell and Jane Booth of Shefford, or it could be his brother George Wellington Bell b. April 1853 d. Feb 1932. Both were buried at St. John's Anglican Cemetery, Bromont, Quebec. There were no markers but Brenda Birch who does the books on cemeteries said they are likely there but with no headstone. Richard was said to be buried at the St. John's Anglican Churchyard in his death record.

BORROWING BOOKS ONLINE FOR YOUR “eREADER”

Dick Eastman points out that most of the libraries which lend out eBooks use a service called Over Drive. You can search worldwide at <http://search.overdrive.com>

Note that it might take a few tries: searching for libraries in “Montreal” produced no results, but searching for “Quebec” produced McGill, the National Archives of Quebec, and the Cote St-Luc, Pointe Claire and Dollard libraries. If you don’t have one of the book reader gadgets, you can read a downloaded eBook simply on your PC. *Tip from Connections QFHS Winter/Spring 2012 Journal by Lorraine Gosselin

ST. PATRICK'S SOCIETY LAUNCHES BOOK

On Sun, Jun 17, 2012 at 3:10 PM, MARILYN MALLETTE <lynrose@rogers.com> wrote:
Hi, received this from Gordon Irwin in Richmond, thought you might be interested or someone you might know.

BOOK LAUNCH!

The St. Patrick's Society of Richmond & Vicinity is celebrating its 135 anniversary with the release of a book on local Irish history. The book, Irish Settlement and National Identity in the Lower St. Francis Valley is written by Peter Southam, a retired history professor from Université de Sherbrooke and published by the Richmond St. Patrick's Society.

Book information - Buy it now

The book describes two hundred years of Irish presence in the Lower St-Francis Valley, a section of Quebec's Eastern Townships that surrounds the Town of Richmond. Much of the source of information for the book was provided by local families. Part I deals with Irish rural settlements and then part II focuses on the Richmond's St-Patrick's Society.

The book is available through the society's web site www.richmondstpats.org at Townships Expressions at 819-566-5717 and Papeterie 2000 in Richmond.

For those who would like the book by mail please send a cheque of 40$ (25$ for the Book and 15$ shipping and handling)

An Index of
English, Scottish, Irish and American settlers

In and around
Richmond, Quebec,
and area as well as their ancestors and descendants.

This disk contains approximately 102,000 names. I may have extensive data on some, or I may have very little on others. Please send corrections and additions to me. NO these people did not all live in the Richmond, Quebec area but someone related to them did or does. The information I have, has been compiled by hundreds of other people and I may create a list of these people and sources if this Index proves to be of interest. (Editor's note: The list is a little hard to maneuver within but a lot of good info) All the single names in the front of the list are tied to a file - Info on Fred Smith dob dod, etc and child, or wife Mary no last name or ?? As I find these I put them into the file so that when I find matching data I will have the first record. In an improved format this would be overcome. Help in correcting and enlarging this index along with stories, family trees and other items of interest will be gratefully appreciated. For additional info – corrections and additions please contact:

WELCOME TO THE MISSISQUOI MUSEUM

<http://www.museemissisquoi.ca/a11.html>

"History Available - Inquire Within"

Housed in an 1830 three-story red brick grist mill, the Missisquoi Museum features exhibitions and education programmes which explore the many individuals and events that contributed to the historic development of Missisquoi County.

Ethel Dessert sent the following message

"Have you ever heard about the Bedford Times in 1889 or a book titled Rendez-Vous with the past in Missisquoi? Mr. Jean-Paul Sirois who use to run the Cowansville Historical Society mentioned the books while trying to help me out with an ancestor. He mentions Book #1. Sounds like it may be something interesting and maybe talks about people in that part of the township in 1889."

Editor's Note:

The "Rendez-Vous with the past in Missisquoi" is listed in the MISSISQUOI MUSEUM publication list but "The Bedford Times in 1889" is not listed.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW

Source: <http://www.internet-genealogy.com/> (revised)

A lot of the information about genealogies that you come across is likely to be wrong. Sorry, but you may as well learn this now rather than later. This applies both to family trees that have been compiled traditionally and those that appear on the internet.

- Most people who get interested in genealogy are interested in the truth – they are not interested in guessing and “stitching” into unrelated family trees. Unfortunately this only applies to “most people”. There are enough people who guess and make invalid assumptions about who is related to whom. Because they don’t care about accuracy, their family trees tend to be much longer than carefully researched lines and can appear much more interesting (at first).
- Even genuine researchers who try to be correct make mistakes. I am responsible for a serious error that I have shared with numerous researchers. Although I have never published or submitted it to any genealogy websites the error is out there. There is no way to correct the errors – and so it gets perpetuated.
- The information that you are given may or may not be true. The hardest part is knowing which? Your best course is to try to confirm as much as you can for yourself.
- The most important habit by far, is noting down, next to your information, the source of that information. I guarantee that you will not be able to remember all the sources and, if you do not note them, that you will spend hours and hours looking up records that you have visited before, or searching through those records to see if this was the source.
- NETWORKING: One of the most effective ways to use the internet is to locate and connect with other genealogists all over the world who share your own research interests, whether for a particular surname, ancestral village, time period, etc.
- GOOGLING: Google is a great tool to help you search for surnames, places and historical topics.
- UTILIZING: I am a firm believer that as genealogists we should make use of all of the “reputable” online resources available – both free and pay-for-sites. As information is added to all of these sites oftener than you think, it is important to check these sites on a regular basis:
- Free Sites: www.rootsweb.com, www.familysearch.org, www.cyndislist.com,
- Subscription sites: www.ancestry.ca, www.ancestry.com, <http://www.ancestry.co.uk/>
- Irish Family History Foundation enquiries@rootsireland.ie
- See a list of Websites on page 10

Genealogy blogs

<http://www.cangenealogy.com/blogs.html>

Why Read a Genealogy Blog?

A blog, short for "web log" is basically an easy way to post new information online quickly, in an easy to read format. When a new article or tip is posted, it is sent automatically to anyone who has subscribed to the blog. By subscribing to one or more genealogy blogs you can easily keep up with the latest techniques, tips and databases from the leaders in the genealogy field with a very small time investment. Genealogy blogs are also a great source for locating genealogical data, enlightening discussions and much more.

- Keep up with what is new in genealogical research!
- These blogs are written by some of the most capable genealogists.

Quote from Brenda Merriman's Blog

http://brendadougallmerriman.blogspot.ca/2012_05_01_archive.html

- "The power of blogging: Originally dated 10 May 2012, this post has been extensively re-worked. A perceptive cousin pointed out an egregious error on my part about John Cameron's age, and then provided more information from what I think of as the Cameron Collaborative. See how writing a blog post can draw out unexpected rewards?"

The Quebec Family History Society launches new website

MONTREAL, January 15, 2012 — The Quebec Family History Society (QFHS) is proud to announce the launch of its new website at www.qfhs.ca. Located at the same address as the genealogical society's original site, the website features several new sections, such as Gary's Genealogical Picks, research tips, surname interests, and a bulletin board.

QFHS members researching their ancestors in Quebec will benefit from the new Jacques Gagné Church Compilations in the members' section. Long-time member Jacques Gagné has compiled historical information and the location of records for more than 1,000 English and French Protestant churches across the province, from 1759 to 1899.

ABOUT QFHS

The Quebec Family History Society is the largest English-language genealogical society in Quebec, Canada. Founded in 1977, it is a registered Canadian charity that helps people of all backgrounds research their family history. Its members, in addition to researching their Quebec roots, research historical records in all Canadian provinces and territories, the United States, the British Isles, and Western Europe. At the QFHS Heritage Centre and Library, members have free access to a collection of 6,000 books, manuscripts, and family histories, plus thousands of microfilms, microfiche, historical maps, and periodicals, and access to billions of online genealogical records, including the world deluxe edition of Ancestry.ca.
